MAKE CHICKENS ROOST HIGH

Health and Vitality of Young Fowls Injured by Overcrowding When Placed in Small Coope.

Because overcrowding in small coops placed near the ground tends to injure the health and vitality of young chickens, it is advisable to teach them to use perch roosts as early as possible and practicable.

James G. Halpin, in charge of the poultry department of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, lays much of the blame for mortality among young chickens during the early winter months from roun and similar diseases to a neglect on the part of their owners in not seeing that they are placed on roosts early in

When chickens are left out on frosty nights in an improvised shelter they are sure to huddle close together and in this way the bodily temperature is raised far above normal, making it easy for them to catch colds. which often lead to fatal diseases. Further development, so important to fowls in the northern states, is also retarded as a result of these improper housing methods.

The charge that "crooked breast" is a sure result of placing chickens on roosts too early in the season is partially refuted by Mr. Halpin, who believes that by using flat perches most of the danger from that trouble may be avoided. He recommends that two by fours, turned edgewise, he used for roosts where the span to be covered is over eight feet.

If the house or coops, in which the young chickens have been sheltered during the summer months, are large enough and nicely ventilated, perches may be installed and the young flock accommodated in them.

Whenever it is found necessary to coop the young chickens in with the older fowls, a screen should be used to keep the two flocks separate until the young chicks become strong enough to roost with the others.

Roosts Laid on Frame Supported by Four Legs Placed in Cans of Oil Keep Mites Away.

These two drawings will give you an idea of a scheme I have put to use to keep mites off the roosts and out of the nest boxes. I am not troubled with mites now as they cannot get to the hens. The roosts are laid on a frame which rests on four short legs, writes Mrs. G. Ogburn of Snyder, Okla., in Farmer's Mail and Breeze.

Level and Easily Movable.

The legs are placed in tin cans and the cans are kept partially filled with coal oil. The nest box is also mounted on four legs set in cans containing coal oil. The box must not come in contact with the wall at any point. This arrangement is especially good for sitting hens.

Of course these devices alone will not keep the mites down. They are only helps. I clean out the house thoroughly and keep it so. I scald it out frequently and throw ashes about or the floor. The hens seem to like their quarters for I often find them taking a dust bath in the ashes.

Kill Disease Germs. A couple of grains of permanganate of potash in a couple of quarts of water will kill disease germs in it. This permanganate will at first turn the water red. It is fine for roup or colds; also it kills all that low animal life that makes slime and green scum on the bottom and sides of the drinking

WESTERN CANADA'S NATURAL RESOURCES

PETROLEUM, NATURAL GAS, COAL AND FARM LANDS.

The developments that have taken place recently in the oil and gas fields of Western Canada have but added another to the many previous evidences that have been produced, showing the great wealth that has been an unknown asset for so many generations.

The latest reports from the oil-fields at Calgary show that there is a roduction there that would appear to equal the best paying fields on the returned to the throne a century ago, continent. Experts have been on the ground for some time. It is said that one of the wells is able to produce 2,000 gallons an hour. If this is so there are but about a dozen wells in the world of greater production. During the past week discoveries of surface indications have been made which of the Legion of Honor. show that oil exists over a considerable portion of Alberta and Saskatchewan, while in Manitoba there have also been showings. At Battleford, Saskatchewan, a few days ago discoveries were made which led to the filing for leases on twenty thousand acres of land, all having strong surface indications. Companies were formed to carry on immediate work, and in a couple of months, or probably less, the story will be told whether oil exists in paying quantities.

But there are also the coal deposits helping to make of Western Canada one of the wealthiese politons of the continent.

With the grain fields covering these hidden riches it is no wonder that a continued range of optimism is to be seen everywhere. Early reports of seeding of all grains being successfully completed all over the country are followed by reports of excellent and strong growth everywhere. During the first week in June most of the wheat had reached a growth of from twelve to twenty inches, with the most even appearance, almost universally, that has been seen for years. Oats appeared equally well, and covered the ground in a way that brought the broadest kind of a grin to overspread the farmer's countenance.

Barley, a favorite with the hog raisers, had taken good root, and was crowding oats for a first place, as to length of shoot. Cultivated fodder grasses are getting great attention. as a consequence of the inclination to go more largely into mixed farming. and the raising of hogs, cattle and horses. The weather is reported fine. just what is needed, and if present favorable conditions continue, the grain crop of Western Canada for 1914 will be the largest average in the history of the country.-Advertisement.

Up to the fifteenth day of its career the flea is able to do a considerable amount of execution. After that length of me it becomes rather sluggish and ditions to the literature of the flea. It has long been known that the flea is no respecter of persons-is, in fact, very promiscuous in its associations; that it is extremely agile; that a settlement of fleas anywhere soon becomes overcrowded; that fleas thrive on most polsons; that they can easily distract one's attention from the most important topics, and that they are meaner, much meaner than flies in their manners-are, in fact, the most impolite of insects.

Teaching the Children.

In the Woman's Home Companion appears a department called "The Exchange." in which various contributors give household suggestions. A Texas woman tells as follows how she has taught her children to pick up their playthings:

"Being a busy homekeeper with three healthy babies to watch over. I try to teach them to help themselves. One great problem is to get scattered toys picked up and put away in proper places. I secured a good-sized soap box, which I covered neatly with denim, and to which I fastened four casters. At night this is our 'freight train' and it's a very simple matter to get my men to push the car around and collect scattered freight (toys)."

Time to Moderate. "Who is that fierce old dowager glowering at us?" he asked as they dipped together. "That's my mother," she answered. "Ahem! Suppose we make the next dip barely perceptible?"

Highly-Prized Decoration Which Every Son of France Has the Ambition to Receive.

The first decorations of the Legion of Honor, the famous French order of merit, were conferred in 1802 upon military and civil officers who had distinguished themselves under the consulate. The order was founded May 19, 1802, by Napoleon, when he was first consul. It consisted of various grades, as grand crosses, grand officers, commanding officers and legionaries, and was a reward for services of merit. The order was confirmed by Louis XVIII when the Bourbons were and it has been continued, with necessary changes in the constitution, through the reigns of Charles X, Louis Philippe, Napoleon III, and the second and third republics. Many Americans and British subjects and other foreigners have received the decorations

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

R. F. D. No. 2, Seymour, Mo .- "My scalp broke out with fine pimples at the start. They itched and burned so much that I was compelled to scratch them and they would fester and come to a head and break out again. The trouble was attended by such burning and itching I could not sleep, also when I sweat it burned the same. My hair fell out gradually and the scalp kept rough and dry with itching and the natural gas deposits that are and burning. After about two years the pimples broke out between my shoulders. My clothing irritated them. I was troubled with that eczema five

As we sat on deck, beneath the minarets of the mosque, the skies slowly turned from orange to lilac and purple of night, throwing a strange pink light over the city's buildings, Archie Bell writes in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. the darkness of the night. The sounds of the city ceased and all was quiet. All but the plaintive lay of a piper who must have been somewhere not far off on the bank of the river. It seemed that he was playing the love song of Larbi of Benl Mora. It was monotonous and drowny and invoked sleep. In the morning before dawn I heard the boys pulling the stake near my window. I had fallen asleen to native music and now I was awakened by their song As we started up the river, the clarion call of the muezzin rang out from the minaret. For good Mohammedans it meant that a new day had begun-but for infidel Americans, there were several additional hours of sleep.
